

Malin Alenius is a PhD student at KTH School of Architecture in the research area of Architectural Design, Technology and Representation.

Her thesis examines the lighting design of daylight and electric light in architecture and its methods of representation. Malin has a 20-year background as a practising architect and lighting specialist, most recently at White Architects in Stockholm.

MALIN ALENIUS

Architect, Sweden